The European Commission's new plastic strategy, as part of a broader Circular Economy initiative, intends to establish an ambitious and credible long-term path for waste management and recycling. The transition from a linear to a more circular economy is necessary to develop a sustainable, low carbon, resource efficient and competitive economy.

EURACTIV invites you to a high-level debate to discuss how to meet the set targets and how to improve the current situation.

You can already reserve your seat by registering here.
